Deny U. S. Plans Any Move In World Affairs

By GEORGE R. HOLMES
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 11—Reports published abroad that President Roosevelt is contemplating a sensational move in the field of world affairs, designed to pacify war-bent Europe were dismissed in the highest quarters here today as so much poppy cock."

A British publication "The Week," has even gone as far as to predict a move within a month on Mr. Roosevelt's part that will be "more sensational and more significant even than the Hoover moratorium" of 1931.

Let Europe Solve Own Problems

Probably nothing could be farther from the truth.

Mr. Roosevelt's present inclination where Europe is concerned is to let Europe stew in the juice of its own making.

Obviously, as any American president, Mr. Roosevelt would like to see Europe at peace trading peacefully within itself and with us, and reducing its armament. But he does

President Prepares For Stay In Georgia

By GEORGE DURNO
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Satisfied he had jarred the nation into accepting supreme court rejuvenation as one of the most dramatic political issues of history, President Roosevelt calmly packed vacation bags today.

This afternoon a special train will take the president to Warm Springs, Ga. There, on the side of Pine Mountain, in a "little white house" of his own, the executive plans to relax for two weeks while cabinet officers and congressional supporters temporarily carry on the spectators battle he started for judiciary reform.

Going For Rest

Mr. Roosevelt announced he was going to the health resort to rest. He assured callers that during the next fortnight he intended to do as little work as possible and pay a minimum of attention to national affairs.

His departure from Washington potentially leaves the arena to the senate judiciary committee, which has just started hearings on the president's bold proposal to add enough justices to the supreme court to "save the constitution from the court and the court from itself." Chairman Henry F. Ashurst (D) of Arizona, and other members are supporting the administration. In opposition are arrayed such powerful committeemen as Senators William E. Borah (R) of Idaho, and Burton K. Wheeler (D) of Montana.

Estimate 85,000 Or More Auto Workers Are Affected By Strikes

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service Staff Correspondent

DETROIT, March 11.—Governor Frank Murphy today announced a "hands off" and "watchful waiting" policy in the strike of 85,000 workers in the Chrysler, Hudson and other automobile plants.

He arrived here this morning from Florida where he cut off his vacation. He remained in Detroit only an hour. He took a train for Lansing.

Not Asked To Intervene

The governor, who played a leading role in the settlement of the recent General Motors strike, said he had talked to both sides from Florida by phone and that he was not asked to intervene.

"I ought not to be asked to intervene," he declared.

"I should not be brought into it unless there is no other way of settling the strike."

Governor Murphy said he expected "a satisfactory conclusion" to the Chrysler strike.

"If negotiations continue too long, or a situation develops requiring action by me, I will be available," the governor asserted.

Alpert and H. M. Zucker, who have been here since Monday conferring with the workers and representatives of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, have returned to New York City.

According to George L. Hummell, representative of the Pennsylvania Department of Labor and Industry, who has been presiding at the conferences between the workers and plant officials, settlement of the strike hinges on recognition of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers as the bargaining agent for the local workers. All other points in the demands made by the union and

Flood Control Project Here

W. P. A. Approval Given $54,000 Project In Shenango River

APPROXIMATELY 200 WILL BE EMPLOYED

A $54,000 flood control project along the channel and banks of the Shenango river north of the Shenango river north of the Cherry street bridge in the Seventh ward section today bore the stamp of approval of Works Progress Administration authorities in Washington.

Announcement of Washington's approval of the work was made at District 14 headquarters of the WPA this morning by Lloyd McCormick, district supervisor of operations. The word reached Mr. McCormick's office today.

To Halt Water Damage

The project, the aim of which is to alleviate damaging high-water conditions that prevail along the Shenango in the area to the north of the Cherry street bridge during flood emergencies, was sponsored by the Lawrence county commissioners.

WPA officials are to officially notify the commissioners of the project's approval shortly.

Two hundred men, Supervisor McCormick disclosed, will be given employment on the project.

"This work," the supervisor continued, "bears 'presidential approval' and that means that this project will go through soon. It will take a short time to organize our men for the work, but we'll get it going within the near future."

The improvement will involve the dredging of a channel through an island in the river in that section and the construction of rip-rap walls along both banks through that section. Proper permission for work on state and private property has already been obtained.

Court Proposal Foes Claim Basic Weakness Conceded By Cummings

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 11—Foes of President Roosevelts proposal to inject "new blood" into the supreme court today contended Attorney General Homer S. Cummings had frankly conceded its basic weakness was the fact the administration must control the votes of the proposed six new justices to secure any lasting social reforms.

This charge was hurled as assistant Attorney General Robert H. Jackson followed the attorney general to the witness stand before the full senate judiciary committee to defend the president's program.

Opposition Sees Edge

While Cummings was hailed on every side for a masterful defense of the president's judicial reforms, opposition leaders believed they had scored on the issue of controlling the votes of the proposed new justices. This belief was held by Senator Borah (R) of Idaho, and Van Nuys, (D) of Indiana.

Borah contended that "unless the president is sure of the new justices, we will be right back where we started from—with laws being declared unconstitutional by divided decisions." He added that "unless the president is certain all six new justices will vote as he desires, his program collapses."

Senator Van Nuys declared:

"The attorney general made a pret-

Loyalists Assert Attacks On Guadalajara Front Are Repulsed

THIRTY PLANES AID IN ATTACK

By THOMAS A. LOAYZA
International News Service Staff Correspondent

MADRID, March 11.—Two insurgent attacks on the Guadalajara front have been driven back, a loyalist communique at Barcelona said today, despite the fact the asaulting insurgents were supported by 30 planes as well as tanks and machine gun crews.

Loyalist artillery drove back the rebels, it was claimed, while government planes duelled with rebel aircraft, forcing them to flee, dropping their bombs at random.

Madrid authorities declared loyalist sorties improved the government positions in the West Park sector, scene of bitter fighting recently.

Attack Violently.

Rebel forces inside Oviedo again attacked violently, encircling the loyalists, but were repulsed when Austurian miners sprang from the trenches and hurled bombs, grenades and sticks of dynamite in the faces of the rebels at a range of less than 300 yards, according to reports received here.

An intense artillery duel followed the attack, but the fighting ended with the loyalists still in a strong position and many parts of Oviedo devastated by well directed government shells.

The government also stated loyal-

Pedonesi Case Nears Completion In County Court

May Reach Jury Late Today—Defendant Tells His Story

CLAIMS DUKES FOUGHT WITH HIM

Court Announces That Evidence Does Not Warrant First Degree

Angelo Pedonesi cannot be convicted of first degree murder for the death of Policeman Robert H. Dukes. Judge W. Walter Braham today instructed the jury trying the Cleveland man that before the arguments of counsel started this afternoon, he wished to inform the jury that the evidence presented in the case was not sufficient to justify a first degree verdict and that they were to ignore that possibility.

Judge Braham's statement came as the testimony was closed. The defense closed its case at 11:35 and District Attorney Mont L. Ailey presented one piece of rebuttal testimony. This was a certified copy of an indictment against Sam Tracl in the Cuyahoga county courts in April, 1928, charging larceny. Attorney Edwin K. Logan asked to present some points to the court for consideration when Judge Braham asked, "is there anything upon first degree"?

District Attorney Alley then said to the court that the commonwealth would agree that first degree murder was not warranted under the evidence. The jury now can consider second degree, manslaughter or acquittal.

Pedonesi Tells Story.

Angelo Pedonesi told his story to the jury today. Called shortly after the opening of court he told practically the same story as was contained in his statement to the mayor when he was returned to New Castle from Cleveland.

STATE TO AID FLOOD CONTROL

Governor Signs 'Key' Measure

State Board Given "Go" Signal In Mapping Flood Control Plans

WILL COOPERATE WITH FEDERAL PLAN

(International News Service)

HARRISBURG, March 11.—Pennsylvania took a leading place in the nation today in its fight for flood control.

Late yesterday, as the legislature went into week-end recess, Gov. George H. Earle signed the administration's key flood control measure which enables the commonwealth to further cooperate with the federal government and other states in preventing future inundations.

The state water and power resources board was given the "go" signal in mapping out flood control plans with the signature of the bill. The board has virtually unlimited power, the commonwealth will be able to use water power resulting in the construction of dams for the generation of electricity if it so desires.

Already in the legislature is an $8,000,000 appropriation measure to start a flood control program and a bill providing for a $50,000,000 bond issue to further protect the state against flood distress.

GOVERNOR MURPHY TAKES NO ACTION IN DETROIT STRIKE

was in the throes of a labor crisis the like of which has never before confronted "the motor capital of the world."

Negotiations between the Chrysler Corporation and the United Automobile Workers reached a serious stage as a result of the action of the company in instituting court procedure designed to oust the strikers who have taken over eight Chrysler plants in the Detroit area.

Issue To Reach Crisis

On Saturday next the issue will come to a head when union officials must show cause before Circuit Judge Allan Campbell why the strikers should not be forced to evacuate the Chrysler plants which they have seized.

The Hudson Motor Car company flatly broke off relations with the union when they spurned the demand that the U. A. W. be recognized as the sole bargaining agency for the employes. About 10,000 Hudson workers are affected by the strike in this plant alone.

A bright spot in the drab situation was the indication that General Motors Corporation would sign an agreement today with the union agreeing upon a minimum hourly wage, one of the big stumbling blocks in the recent 44-day G. M. strike.

local workers have been met by the company, but they have refused to recognize the union, it is stated.

To Feed Workers

Arrangements were being made this morning by the Amalgamated Clothing Workers union to establish a commissary at the plant of the National Pants Company on the Butler road, and the strikers who intend to remain in the plant will be fed by the union until the strike here is settled, it was stated.

In addition to John Sobczak, Western Pennsylvania organizer for the Amalgamated Clothing Workers, the union was represented at the conferences yesterday by Abe Miller, of New York, member of the general executive board of the Amalgamated Clothing Workers of America, and Sam Nocella, Eastern Pennsylvania manager of the amalgamated. All but Mr. Sobczak left the city late this morning.

Conferences were held Wednesday afternoon and Wednesday evening between the union representatives and officials of the company and when the officials of the company remained firm in their decision to withhold union recognition, negotiations were broken off, and Mr. Alpert and Mr. Zucker left the city late last night. Mr. Alpert has not been in good health and wanted to get back to his home because of his physical condition.

Mr. Sobczak said this morning that following the end of negotiations over recognition of the union, the committee had reported to the workers in the plant, and that they had voted to continue the strike until recognition was given.

Through Mr. Miller, negotiations are expected to be continued in New York City, it was stated this morning.

Offer Wage Increase

(International News Service)

Washington, March 11.—Strike-bound for two days, the National Pants Co. offered its hundred or so striking employees a 15 per cent increase in wages today.

A previous offer of 10 per cent was refused by the workers. The union demands include: 25 per cent increase in wages, minimum hours and union recognition.

The company stated, through its manager, Charles Pilzer, that it would not recognize the union. The attitude of the strikers toward the 15 per cent offer was undetermined.

ty frank disclosure that the president wishes to pack the court. Everything else boiled out, the proposition remains that the president must control the votes of those six new justices or his whole program is destroyed."

Warned New Division Likely

The record of Cumming's appearance before the committee disclosed he was asked a half dozen times whether the administration had any assurances the enlarged court would hold new deal legislation constitutional. He was warned too, that 15 justices might divide 8 to 7 against the new deal.

The first time he was pressed, Cummings replied: "We will have to take that chance."

Another time he replied: "That might happen if the liberals we appointed turned out to be conservatives but I don't expect any such thing to happen."

The final time he answered, he said:

"I would be willing to guess that if this law passes, we will have progressive judges appointed to the bench."

Wheeler Answers

But even under pressure, he wouldn't say how the administration could be assured of "liberal votes" from the proposed six new justices.

Opposition leaders meanwhile hailed the Chicago address of Senator Wheeler (D) of Montana, last night as having "completely answered" the victory day speech of the president. Wheeler declared that the president had reached "crisis, power, haste and hate" when "deliberation, care and time" were necessary to study so profound an issue as enlarging the supreme court.

not see in the present situation anything that he can do that would be helpful in that direction.

The president was asked in his latest press conference if he contemplated calling another international disarmament conference. He replied bluntly in one word, "No." He was not asked whether he contemplated calling another international economic conference. But if he had been asked the answer would have been the same, "No."

President Roosevelt is constantly being importuned to 'do something' about Europe. The agitation comes not only from Europe itself but from organized peace societies of this country, and a very small minority of internationally-minded idealists within the administration.

Replies Are Vague

To these importunities, the president has a stock reply: "Do what?"

Almost invariably the replies to that the vagut and uncertain, but the agitators are certain that he should "do something." Just what he could do does not appear clear, either to Mr. Roosevelt himself nor to those who agitate and palpitate for action.

The only sensational developments in administration foreign policy in the immediate offing—and they can hardly be called sensational—is the adoption of a hard-boiled neutrality act which will keep the United States out of the next European war and tightening if tightening is needed of the Johnson act, which will keep American dollars at home.

That, in the opinion of administration officials from President Roosevelt down, is about all that can be done under the present circumstances.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to thank our friends and neighbors for kindness and sympathy extended us during the illness and death of our wife and mother, Mrs. Ella Shuler. Also for beautiful floral tributes and care donated.

DISCREDITED PROPHETS

FOR prophets, this is a Winter of discontent and disrepute. Seldom in many years have weather conditions conspired so effectively to discredit those who profess extraordinary gifts in the matter of foretelling the exact nature of the seasons as one swiftly succeeds the other.

The record is disillusioning to those who placed deep faith in the wisdom of wild life—the squirrel, the chipmunk and the wild goose, the robin, the bear and the beaver, all of whom, we have been taught to believe, anticipate the exact character of the seasons through innate instincts and prepare themselves accordingly.

Such an important authority as the great naturalist, John Burroughs, questioned the soundness of this theory and produced a great deal of evidence, gathered through actual experience, tending to show that nature's wild children have no advance knowledge with respect to the seasons. They are often fooled, as many a wilderness tragedy proves.

DEMOCRACIES ARMING FOR PEACE

In his Aberdeen speech in justification of Great Britain's elaborate new program of defense Foreign Secretary Eden paid a tribute to the United States in terms as graceful as they may be assumed to be sincere.

Looking at the troubled state of the world today, he said, "it is a comforting thought that, over the vast area where the American flag flies, there is a great peace-loving and progressive influence at work."

Here are the two greatest democracies determined to put their defenses in order and yet eager to seize the first opportunity to "cut this vicious circle of rising armament" through common agrement with the family of nations.

Unfortunately, two great dictatorships, one of them unblushingly urging the unlimited production of population to serve as cannon fodder, can not be put in this category. They are widely regarded as arming for war and not for insurance against that calamity which would make them stabilizing influences for peace.

PROTECTION FOR TEACHERS

The educational costs survey commission should receive wide support in its plea to Governor George H. Earle for him to sponsor a tenure act to protect school teachers against "political coercion."

The commission's plea came after a study of school administrations throughout the state as a part of a survey ordered by the 1935 State Legislature.

"There are teachers,'" the commission reported, "who have been compelled to enter politics on what was virtually a "ward heeler' basis, being required to 'work' certain blocks and make certain the vote was 'delivered' the right way."

Such disclosures are shocking to persons who have a right to expect that the education of their children be kept free from entangling influences. We are glad that such a condition does not exist here.

The commission recommends the establishment of a state council of education, empowered to administer a tenure act. When charges of political coercion arise, the state council would then appoint referees to take testimony for presentation to the council for action.

This method of attacking the coercion problem sounds feasible. Nothing should deter the state officials and law makers from giving this protection to our teachers.

CLAW-HAMMER COATS AND UNIFORMS

American diplomats are breathing easier these days because of an announcement that they will not be required by official court regulations to don silk knee breeches to see George Windsor crowned King of England May 12.

The reason for the easier breathing is not that the diplomats have knobby legs that would show up to disadvantage when encased in silken hose. It's because Uncle Sam, staunch foe of things gaudy, had decreed that short pants couldn't be worn by his State Department representatives.

This order put the diplomats in a dilemma. The Earl Marshal's office in London continued to insist on full court dress for anybody who wanted a place inside Westminster Abbey. The U. S. State Department was unyielding.

It so happened that British Labor Party leaders didn't like knee pants at official functions either. They shouted long and hard, and their objections led to the announcement that "fresh concessions are being made in regard to dress for the coronation ceremony for the benefit of a number of those who will be attending." The action let in the Americans.

So now we shall witness a coronation ceremony of mixed vintage. The King and Queen will arrive in a gilded horse-drawn carriage. Other ancient equipage will dot the procession. But there also will be high-powered autos carrying the visiting dignitaries. Inside the Abbey the somber black and white of full dress clothes will be eclipsed by the braid and tassels of gaudy uniforms.

The diplomats may be breathing easier, but those of royal blood, who survive because of their nation's adherence to the customs of a dead era, might well view the claw-hammer coats as a symbol of monarchy's passing.

Words of Wisdom

Every age has its problems, by solving which humanity is helped forward.—H. Heine.

The Parent Problem

By Garry C. Myers, Ph. D.

JEALOUSY IS PROBLEM

"DEAR DR. MYERS: I am the mother of two boys and a girl, Agnes, five, three and one. This older boy has been a problem since he was a small tot, and is becoming more so every day. He is a super-active child, very mischievous, and is becoming sullen, rebellious, impudent. Hhe does not want to do anything he is told, does not want to dress or undress himself, rebels at hanging up his clothe or doing even pleasant things when asked. . . . I can't step out of the house for five minutes and leave him in there alone or he will be ransacking drawers, cupboards or into some other mischief. He will deliberately break his toys, stone the chickens or cows, is mean to his dog, and one day I came into the house to find he had the radio out of the chasis. He is rough with the furniture, clambers upon it, and jumps from it. . . .

"He can be with his grandmother, who lives across the street, and be as nice as can be, but let me step into the house, though I don't say a word to him, and he is a different boy. I read somewhere that 'behind every problem child is a problem mother,' and I seem to provoke this child in some way, though I long with all my heart to help him. . . ."

Tries To Be Good Mother

My reply: I can see how hard you have tried to be a good mother and, how you must be worried. With those little children you must often grow very weary and nervous. Do try to rest more and let more things about the house go undone.

Jealousy is the center of that child's problem, and helps explain why your presence can irritate him. He thinks you do not love him as you love the other children, though I am sure you do. What he thinks is so for him. The very fact that he gets punished more than they do makes him feel jealous, causing him to do more bad things to be punished for, to be more jealous, and so on.

You cannot overlook all his bad conduct, of course. But try to find ways to punish less, but more effectively. Go to your public library and ask for my book, "The Modern Parent." Read the chapters on jealousy, punishment and stubbornness. In the meanwhile try to abandon whipping. For serious offense assign him to sit in a chair where you can see him for exactly 20 minutes. Of course he must know you would whip him if he got down before the time was up. There must be an army and navy in reserve.

Let him go to bed half hour later than the rest, and give him other privileges, "because he is so big." Praise him more when he is good and show him more affection. Never compare him unfavorably with the other children. You and Dad read aloud to him a great deal. Help him to have more contacts with other children his age. Be a policeman to see that the younger children do not harm his things or use them without his permission. Persuade him to share but do not command him to do so, and praise him copiously when he does share.

All Of Us

By MARSHALL MASLIN

HE CONQUERED HIS FEAR

THERE WAS a man who thought himself sensible and tough-minded, with no nonsense about him.

He went to France and fought in the war. I think he must have fought bravely, too, because when he came home he could have worn many medals on his broad chest . . . But he didn't wear them, and he never talked about them, either . . . He told me once of walking through the rich fields of northern France through the volunteer hay and the riot of wild flowers—after attack and retreat and bloody counter-attack and cautious pursuits—and stumbling over the bodies of poor boys who had died in battle . . . and now rested quietly with their faces close to the soft faces of flowers that nodded so gently in the warm spring air . . . He stepped over them, he said, and went unthinking on his way.

The man came home again to California and one spring, many years later, a friend said: "Let's take our families for a picnic and to see the wild flowers" . . . So they went where the flowers made a lush splash of purple and gold over the great shoulders of a mountain.

And the man couldn't STAND IT . . . He walked a hundred paces through the green grass and the rich color, and turned and ran stumbling back to the car and sat on the running board and his face in his hands . . . He thought he couldn't stand it, ever again, to look upon flowers in a field again. They sickened him, they drove him mad with the memory of those other flowery fields where dead boys had fallen, to sleep forever.

"What happened?" I asked. "Did you learn to 'stand it'?"

"Yes," he said, "I learned. And I learned that a man can stand pretty near anything if he tries, if he WANTS to do it, if it's right to stand it, if there's a good, strong, clean reason why he should . . . I buried that scar deep inside of me, or I washed it clean away. I covered it with flowers. I fear it no more. I do not let the blood that flowed on those fields of France stain the sweet beauty of my California hills."

This man should have a medal for that conquest of himself—but they don't give medals for victories like that.

Under-estimated Roosevelt?

Predicts Economic Collapse.

SCOUTS REPORTING to this column say that President Roosevelt is stronger on the supreme court issue than his opponents believe.

The president's radio talks are effective—but the nullification of social and economic measures was more effective. In brief, the people who were benefited by those measures have not forgotten, in fact, are more determined than ever.

WORLD SWEEP?

It is probable that a labor-agrarian movement will sweep the world. (This is not to be mistaken for an anti-church movement, as men of strong church tendencies lead in the United States.)

In London, Laborites made such heavy gains in the municipal government election the other day that it looks as if the Conservatives will have a difficult time retaining office for more than a year longer.

Do you remember Howard Scott? Yes, the director of Technocracy, Inc. He still speaks. His latest lecture is "Social Engineering or Chaos".

He predicts that the present economic system will collapse completely prior to 1942—because we have neither a balanced nor an orderly society.

He contends that industry, by loaning purchasers money to buy finished products, is bringing about its own downfall. He adds that world-wide advancement of credit to consumers by producers is destroying mass purchasing power.

Technocracy would strike a balance between production and consumption on consuming power rather than scarcity of plenty, Scott asserts.

BUCHANAN

President Roosevelt has said several times that he does not desire to leave the nation in the same shape that President James Buchanan did, when Buchanan turned over his office to Abraham Lincoln in 1861.

Professor Charles A. Beard tells vividly, in his "The Rise of American Civilization", of that period. Here is an excerpt:

"From the early days of November, 1860, to March 4, 1861, while planters prepared for the worst, the government at Washington drifted, helpless in the conflicting currents. According to the terms of the constitution, Lincoln could not be inaugurated until the day lawfully appointed, and so for four critical months the Democratic party, which had been split wide open by the campaign and defeated at the polls, continued to hold the reins of power. Its titular leader, President James Buchanan, had no popular mandate to deal with the question of secession. Nor had he any overmastering will of his own in the premises.

"Obviously bewildered by the stirring events taking place about him, he exclaimed in one breath that the southern states had no right to withdraw from the Union, and in

X-RAY PICTURES OF TWO MEN

By chance they met in the doctor's room,
Master and workman, chair by chair;
Away from the desk and the lathe and loom
They started to chat as they waited there.
They had quarreled long through a bitter strike,
But now they were patients, two men alike.

"What's wrong?" said one. Said the other, "Pain!
Pain that follows my every meal!
And everything that I've tried seems vain;
Always this burning inside I feel."
"That's queer," said the other. "I'm troubled, too,
By a similar ache that is bothering you."

The workman answered: "You must be wrong.
You don't suffer the same as I.
Distresses like these to the poor belong.
Whatever you need you have cash to buy."
"The X-Ray shows," said the rich man then,
"That under the skin we are just two men.

"Isn't it queer, when the films are made
They have to number them, poor and rich,
For by nothing else that is there displayed
Could they ever discover just which was which.
Just under the skin when the light breaks through
There is scarcely a difference twixt me and you."

WHEN you are busy with your Spring planting, save a few shrubs and flowers for the approaches to your back door.

Do not make the mistake of concentrating entirely upon your front lawn. Bear in mind that the practical or "service" end of your home should be as attractive as your front entrance. It, too, needs floral decorations. Bareness at that end will make it look like the forgotten spot and detract from the general effect of your entire landscaping scheme.

The center of the lawn of the house of ordinary size should be a plain stretch of grass. Flower beds, drives, paths and shrubbery should be placed along the sides or in the corners. If placed in the center, they will decrease the apparent size of your lawn.

Dear Miss Markel—What type of wedding would be correct for a widower marrying a maiden?—Ina.

Answer—The wedding of a spinster is always the same in detail whether she marries a bachelor or a widower. The widower, or divorce, should not give a bachelor dinner. But the bride may have an elaborate wedding, wearing the traditional bridal attire, with a long queue of bridesmaids, if that is her wish.

THE PACIFIST'S PROBLEM.

Now let's get this international relations business straight.

As we understand it, the American people loaned a lot of money to several European powers, and sacrificed thousands of our youth on their battlefields, so that a war could be won to "Save the World for Democracy."

Then for a while things were peaceful and it seemed that they wouldn't need American help any more, so they decided not to bother about paying back their debts.

About that time the greed they wrote into the Versailles Treaty began to bear fruit, Dictators began to sprout, Democracy was all but pushed off their continent, nations began arming furiously, and it began to look as though they'd have to have another war.

So Britain just recently sent over a bigwig named Runciman to talk it all over calmly and explain how there had been some mistake, and how there was really no need for the Johnson Act banning American loans to foreign debtors in default. France sent a new Ambassador, George Bonnet, across the water to second the motion, in a nice way, of course.

Oh yes, and another thing, Uncle Sam. Do you suppose it would be possible to float a loan in your country for poor starving Germany, whose people cannot eat their tanks and machine guns and will surely stir up trouble if we don't do something about it?

If you hear a noise, it will be a door slamming in someone's face.

Bible Thought For Today

Vanderbilt Is Popular Youth

Youthful Alfred Vanderbilt Is Thoroughly Liked In New York City

DOODLING IS NEW OCCUPATION

O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 11.—Alfred Vanderbilt continues out front as about the most popular of the generation's rich young bloods. A keen judge of horseflesh, his stables have won many ribbons and he has otherwise proved a thorough - going sportsman. Especially in defeat, which is the real test.

As the most desirable of the current beaux, he plays the field and is not very susceptible to acquisitive mamas. One evening he may acquire a cutie of the cabarets and the next a debutante in full flower. He is also devoted to his mother, the beauteous Margaret Emerson.

Headwaiters like him because of his unobstructive manner in contrast to the hoop-la of the usual rich play boys. He is a teetotaler. He is already in possession of many millions. But to his cronies he remains "Al." He is a great favorite among stablemen and jockeys, who usually hate owners.

His younger brother, George, is also immensely liked. He is a globe trotter of distinction and has invaded many lost places of the world for his motion picture experiments. And to collect scientific data. He also enjoys seeing the town by gaslight now and then.

One of New York's most ambitious and prolific dinner and luncheon tossers is the buxom Madame Alma Claybergh, formerly of the opera. There's scarcely a week she does not give several elaborate affairs for the headline crowds. A close friend of the president's mother, she is also one of the less than half a dozen who can flush the elusive Theodore Dreiser out of his cloister for the evening—all togged out in dinner jacket and sulking like a sore-footed bear.

Buster West, the loose jointed dancer, is going in for chicken farming on a major scale. He has a hatchery at South Norwalk, New Hampshire, and sends a large shipment of eggs to market daily. Also a dozen now and then to special friends. When his nimble legs lose their limber he is not going to be in line for a benefit. Already his experiment is on the profit side. Buster has been on the stage almost all his life. Beginning, like Buster Keaton, in a knockabout turn with his father in which he was flung around like a feather in a gale. He's been a clean living lad and a credit to his calling.

A restaurant head waiter has shown me some samples of doodling he has salvaged from tables after the departure of guests. Doodling is a grandma term, recently revived in a Gary Cooper film, for absent minded pencil scribbling on the backs of menus, table cloths, napkins or what have you. Herbert Bayard Swope is a doodler. As are Jules Bache, Mervwyn LeRoy, John Held, Jr., Charles V. MacArthur and others. Vincent Lopez is such a confirmed doodler that he recently made it the theme of a novelty song.

This column has been appearing in a Honolulu paper for many years. A checkup recently showed that per population more letters were received from the Hawaiian capital than any other city on the syndicate list, save Los Angeles. The psychology for what seems epistolary acclaim is in reality a phase of longing. People far from home aching for a contact with someone amid the old scenes.

The Carnegie is a bijou movie where many of the upper bracket crowds see the hit films after they have made the rounds of the colossal cinemas. In this way they do not have to rub elbows with hoi polloi. At the Carnegie curb the other night I saw a mighty evidence of retusning good times—a limousine with both liveried chauffeur and footman on the front seat. Each expressing frozen-face grandeur.

Bagatelles: Clem McCarthy likes the back seat on a street car platform for meditation. . . . Gilbert Miller's stage direction is said to be the most unobstructive of all. . . . Walt Disney is a celery fiend. . . . Mrs. Harry Reichenbach is directing fashion shows in South America. . . . Two former seat holders in the Stock Exchange are now running elevators. . . . Until her passing, Berton Braley never went to a party without his mother. . . . The bedroom furnishings of the late Geo. F. Baker cost $90,000.

One of the brash boys in the snack bars conscious of admiring lorgnetted glances from a rather venerable number facing him across the room finally got a bit restless. And when it continued he had the waiter take the dowager this impertinent note: "Tomorrow at this hour—a profile view. Bring the kiddies."

Noted Metropolitan Opera Star
finds Luckies easy on her precious throat—
Marjorie Lawrence says:

"You must have a big voice to sing Wagner. My favorite role of 'Brunnehilde' in Wagner's 'Gotterdammerung' is a very exacting one. Yet—when I am back in my dressing room after I have finished singing, there is nothing I enjoy more than lighting up a Lucky. It is a light smoke—so gentle—so smooth—that it does not irritate my throat in the least. I agree with the others at the Metropolitan that a light smoke is a wise choice."

Marjorie Lawrence
BRILLIANT SOPRANO OF THE METROPOLITAN OPERA COMPANY

An independent survey was made recently among professional men and women—lawyers, doctors, lecturers, scientists, etc. Of those who said they smoke cigarettes, more than 87% stated they personally prefer a light smoke.

Miss Lawrence verifies the wisdom of this preference, and so do other leading artists of the radio, stage, screen and opera. Their voices are their fortunes. That's why so many of them smoke Luckies. You, too, can have the throat protection of Luckies—a light smoke, free of certain harsh irritants removed by the exclusive process "It's Toasted". Luckies are gentle on the throat.

KILL THAT COLD
Give It No Chance to Survive Thru the Use of Half-way Measures!

Treat a cold to kill it, not to coddle it!

Many a cold lightly treated turns into something worse.

Hit a cold "where it lives"—in the system! That means to take an internal treatment.

Hit it with a cold medicine, not with a preparation good for all kinds of ailments.

Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine is the treatment you want.

First of all, it is a cold tablet, made expressly for colds.

Second, it is internal medication and of fourfold effect.

Here's what it does:

First, it opens the bowels, an advisable step in the treatment of a cold.

Second, it checks the infection in the system, a vital step.

Third, it relieves the headache and fever.

Fourth, it tones the system and helps fortify against further attack.

That's the fourfold treatment a cold calls for and in Bromo Quinine you get it in the form of a single tablet.

Bromo Quinine tablets now come sugar-coated as well as plain.

The sugar-coated are exactly the same as the regular, except that the tablets are coated with sugar for palatability.

When you feel a cold coming on, don't "monkey around" with half-way measures.

Go right to your druggist for a package of Grove's Laxative Bromo Quinine tablets.

Start taking the tablets immediately, two every four hours. Used in time, Bromo Quinine will usually break up a cold in 24 hours and that's the speed you want.

The Girl Scouts of Troop 20 had a meeting in the Lincoln-Garfield school, opened with games and patrol corners. Second class girls studied the five points of health, while the other girls studied their knots. The life of the founder of Girl Scouts, Mrs. Juliette Low, was given in outline for the interest of the troop, and the anniversary of scouting was celebrated by placing lighted candles on a large birthday cake.

Fall Is Fatal To Butler Man

(International News Service)

BUTLER, Pa., March 11—Howard Bernard O'Brien, 28, was killed early today when he tripped and fell backward through a window pane to the concrete pavement in front of his residence here.

O'Brien had been walking upstairs in his home when he slipped on a landing and fell against the window. He dropped 14 feet, sustaining a fractured skull and a broken neck. Death was instantaneous.

It is easy to tell home-town amateur players from professionals. If a professional is rotten, he isn't cheered.

Court Fight May Change Parties

Look For Issue To Be Injected Into Congressional Battles In 1938

FIGHT MAY TURN IN ANY DIRECTION

Central Press
Washington Bureau
602 Times-Herald Bldg.

By CHARLES P. STEWART
Central Press Columnist.

WASHINGTON, March 11.—The different ways in which the supreme court fight may turn out are almost, as high school essays are in the habit of expressing it, "too numerous to mention."

Congress and the president have made it possible now for a justice, who has served 10 years and is past 70, to retire on full pay if he chooses. Six of the present ones are eligible to do so. As many as six, or fewer, conceivably might do it, enabling the White House to alter the bench's complexion, by new appointments, to its liking. That would end the pending controversy, at least for the time being.

It is likely that this would be a sufficiently fundamental method of effecting reorganization to satisfy President Roosevelt. Nor is it likely that there will be, at most more than a retirement or two—not enough to accomplish the presidential purpose.

Still, theoretically, it is imaginable.

REALIGNMENT—WHEN?

Or the contest may continue.

Perhaps congress finally will acquiesce in the Rooseveltian plan, and the court will be "packed", to employ the terminology of the plan's opponents.

In that event there will follow a program of legislation which Senator E. R. Burke of Nebraska says will "realign the parties". It will do so undoubtedly. The parties are commingled already. The mixture's sub-division is long overdue. Such a contest ought to precipitate it.

Senator Burke looks for it in the congressional elections of 1938. Maybe, and maybe the result of that test will be so overwhelming as to be decisive, on one side or the other. Maybe not, too, however. In the latter event the issue will hang fire until 1940. President Roosevelt says he does not want a third term, but he won't be able to dodge a third candidacy if such a situation arises.

He may not run again as a Democrat, for, according to Senator Burke's prediction, the Democratic and Republican parties will be extinct; there will be two new parties, and "F. D." will be the candidate at the head of the ticket of one of the new ones.

But perhaps congress will turn down the Rooseveltian program at this session.

Perhaps, as an alternative, congress does not deliberately turn it down, but that the senate "talks it to death", preventing a vote on its merits. Then it inevitably will be a congressional election issue next year, and, if THAT isn't decisive, as it may not be, "F. D." simply will be COMPELLED to run in 1940, to vindicate himself—or try to.

It is nonsense for him to say that he does not want a third candidacy.

Suppose he does not; how can he, in certain contingencies, help himself?

No, he may not be again a Democratic candidate in the old Democratic sense. But, nevertheless, a CANDIDATE.

A MUDDLED SITUATION

Of course there is the chance that congress may adopt the president's plan for the supreme court's reorganization at the current congressional session, that it will work unexpectedly well, smoothing out all differences.

It will be a miracle, though, if that happens.

The jumble, between legislation and constitutional amendment, conservatism and liberality, states' rights and centralization, seems inextricable.

Democracy is "in the soup".

That is about the only thing it is safe to gamble on.

Davis Invents New Radiator

New Castle Man Is Given U. S. Patent—Application Filed Last August

(Special To The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 11.—Adjudged by patent examiners to be patentable because of ten points of originality, a radiator, invented by Archibald H. Davis, Jr., of New Castle, in collaboration with Paxson Winsborough, of Pittsburgh, is the basis of a patent issued during the past week, according to the weekly report of the United States Patent Office, made public today.

Application for the patent was filed August 4, 1936. They assigned their patent rights to the Shaw-Perkins Manufacturing Company, of Pittsburgh.

In its report the patent office describes the invention as follows:

"A radiator comprising a plurality of space fixed plates, bars disposed between the plates and engaging them adjacent their corners for maintaining them in spaced relation, tie rods extending through the plates for binding the plates and bars into a unit, a plurality of spaced floating plates disposed between each pair of said fixed plates, all of the plates being provided with openings therethrough, and a tube for conveying a heating medium extending through said openings in engagement with the plates."

No News Yet On Social Security Operations Here

Reserved by the government in January for occupancy February 1, the five-room office suite in the Johnson building which is to house the local district headquarters of the United States Social Security Board, was still without an occupant today. The office supplies sent ahead some time ago, were still stored at the post office. Government rent payments for the fifth-floor quarters commenced February 1, reports said.

Labor Battle Is Continued

Green And Lewis In Campaign Of Words Over Labor Organizations

FREY CALLS C. I. O. PAPER ORGANIZATION

By EDWARD B. LOCKETT
International News Service Staff Correspondent

WASHINGTON, March 11.—Old line, American Federation of Labor craft union leaders today met the challenge of John L. Lewis and his rapidly strengthening industrial union ranks with a campaign of words.

While President Green of the A. F. of L. in Chicago renounced the Lewis committee for industrial organization as "anarchy", his vice president, John P. Frey, charged the CIO was a "paper organization".

Lewis Presses Ahead

As Green told his audience John L. Lewis has split labor's ranks wide open, Frey, over the telephone from Cleveland, said the CIO had no substance and could not endure.

And as the two A. F. of L. leaders attacked him verbally, Lewis, claiming already 2,000,000 members of his CIO, launched two campaigns seeking new CIO members in the 1,200,000 workers strong textile industry, and another million in the oil industry. Brushing away A. F. of L. criticism as "unimportant", the burly CIO leader boldly moved to set up an organization structurally identical with, and rival to, the 50-year-old federation.

Pay Dues in A. F. of L.

The announcement of Lewis that his CIO had voted itself power to issue certificates of affiliation to international, national, state and city bodies, brought the Frey outburst. Green's attack was made in a speech scheduled before the CIO announced it would set itself up as a national organization. Discussing the new CIO setup, Frey said:

"The American Federation of Labor, you must remember, is composed of peoplpe who had to pay initiation fees to affiliate and who have to pay dues.

"I'm not very much disturbed over a paper organization. It may be blown up somewhat, but the substance just isn't there."

CITY EMPLOYES ASK RESTORATION OF FORMER WAGES

wages before an amicable reduction agreement years ago and the restoration desired. He delved first into the police and fire departments statistics.

He explanied that previously the monthly rate was $150. In 1931 they agreed to a $15 monthly cut and were given a cut of $13.50 in 1932. In 1936 a monthly restoration of $12.50 was granted by the present council, which yet leaves the men in these departments $16.35 below the former wage.

Martin said the employes of the sewers and streets department had passed a resoultion in which council was asked to establish a maximum work week of 48 hours at rates as follows: common labor from 40½ cents an hour to 55 cents an hour, and truck drivers and skilled labor from 44½ cents an hour to 60 cents an hour.

Asks For Increases.

The judge said he did not propose going into the reasons for the reductions but did mention that the cut was made after an amicable agreement between the council and employes over the inability to collect taxes. He added the restoration was asked because of improved conditions, improved collection of taxes, high cost of living and increase in wages in almost every industrial plant in New Castle.

He expressed the belief that tax collections here this year will be better than at any time during the past 10 years. He also expressed the belief that council felt the justice in the employes demand and praised the faithfulness of city employes and said their duties are performed equally as good as performed by employes of other municipalities.

"I believe the wages should be restored. It is an honorable proposition and a great necessity that it be restored," the judge declared.

Norman Freeborne, Trades and Labor Assembly, followed the judge. He said the average rate paid firemen is about 30 cents an hour, or less than paid a laborer. He said the assembly has about 40 bodies affiliated. He said the body supports the appeal of the firemen and described the increase in the cost of living and recited the raise in house rents here.

Want Eight Hour Day

Apollo Smith, garbage department, spoke for the men in that bureau. He said they want an eight hour day. Smith also said different wage rates prevail in the department. He said when their wages was cut they were forced to lay off two days each month. Smith requested a 10 per cent restoration, full time and a uniform rate.

Harry Barr spoke for the men in the streets and sewer departments. He described the work and said the job is not a pleasant one. Weather conditions, Barr said, had considerable to do with the amount of money employes received owing to lay-offs when it was impossible to work. He said working conditions now are better than ever, but said sometimes their pay ranged from $7.00 to $19.00 for a two weeks' pay. He said the wage was too low and asked that the wages be raised.

Gerson Speaks

Jack Gerson, local businessman, expressed himself as greatly surprised there were not more businessmen present to thank the officials and employes for the service they render the public. He said the city has a fine force of men and women and said the employes should have been given a restoration of wages without the gathering having been necessitated.

Gerson told of the increase in the cost of living, pointing out as proof, his own household. He said the public expects city employes to dress up and appear neat. "I don't see how they can do this without a raise," he declared, and said that money given out to the employes will return to business. He further decalred that in his opinion city employes are underpaid.

He declared that the employes of his business do not face the responsibility faced by city employes, some of whom risk their lives in the interest of the public. He said his employes receive more money than city workers. He said the city employes should receive the restoration of wages.

Fireman Speaks

Norman McFarland, a fireman, told of the increase in rents. He said he was living in a house at a rate of $25.00 a month. The rent was raised $12.50 a month, he added. He moved, McFarland said, then added: "Today I cannot find a house I can afford to rent." He is a fireman. The present rate of pay for firemen and police is approximately $133.65 monthly.

Jack Ward represented the streets department. He said that if rain comes the men are laid off. He said the last two weeks pay for him was $34.22. He said he has not received $80.00 a month for a long time. He said rent had advanced from $3.00 to $10.00 monthly. He said factory employes now receive $5.00 a day and pointed out street employes receive no vacations.

Ward added that he could have secured a petition filled with the names of businessmen, but did not do so because "I know we are appearing before reasonable men."

Officer Speaks

Cruiser Car Operator H. L. (Whitey) Richards of the police department said his rent had been increased three times during the last few months. He said rent paid by other police officers has increased and that groceries has taken a leap upward.

At this point Councilman Alexander said: "I feel their claim is just. Rent has gone up and living cost has increased. We should treat our men the same as other municipalities treat their employes. They have received a bigger wage than we give. "He spoke in favor of restoring the wage and added: "I don't believe they are asking too much."

"I concur in Mr. Alexander's statement" said Councilman B. F. Butler. "I am in favor of it." However, he pointed out that the amount restored must be first considered by council. He said that they should be paid more than paid at present. Butler said also that the taxpayer must be considered.

"We don't want to be too hard on him. It is a question of judgment" Butler stated.

Alexander asked the men to give council time for consideration.

"You wouldn't take this to be a sit-down strike, would you" jestlingly inquired Mayor McGrath.

"No, relaxed" laughed Alexander.

At this point Barr asked that if the restoration be given it be made to date from March 16.

Judge Martin arose and stated: "This is not at all in the nature of a sit-down or stand-up strike. It is simply a proposition of faithful employes who are asking for a restoration of wages."

Needs Consideration

Mayor Charles E. McGrath then addressed the employes and their representatives, saying:

"This is a problem that cannot be settled within a few minutes. There is lots to consider. I would like to remind you that this body convened here and heard taxpayers tell stories of their inability to pay taxes.

"We have two sides to consider. I state this so you will know we have to consider thus." He then told of the city being $1,800,000 short in the valuation assessment and then state there had been no increase in valuation. He said the city can cut the millage and double the assessment but this "would be only kidding the people."

Alexander then thanked the employes for the fair manner in which their request had been presented. He said the council appreciated their cooperation. "What we can figure out we do not know as yet" he declared.

Council J. M. Rice offered a motion referring the request to committee. Alexander seconded the motion. It was adopted unanimously.

The council chambers was crowded with employes.

Hundred Per Cent Day Comes Sunday

Supreme Effort In Attendance Contest Is Scheduled For March 14

"One hundred per cent enrollment day" will be next Sunday, March 14, in the increase campaign or "Gold Rush" sponsored by the Lawrence County Sabbath School Association, and the problem for this day especially will be to see that the members of the various classes who have not been present regularly will be present and be counted as gold nuggets.

Personal visits, telephone calls, reminders in the form of postal cards—all will be used to bring out the members and swell the accumulated nuggets that now total 1629 for the first five Sundays of the campaign that closes Easter Sunday, March 28th. A number of the eleven participating Sunday Schools are using inter class contests to boost the general attendance and in one Sunday School the women challenged in no uncertain terms the men to equal the attendance record of the women for the remainder of the campaign. The attendance of the men was compared to over-night mushroom growth while the attendance of the women was likened to the sturdy oak on a wind swept hill. The women further threw this challenge in the teeth of J. D. Reebel, one of the Sunday School's outstanding men, and dared him to try and lead the men to victory. Those acquainted with this well-known man will know the Sunday School in question.

The accummulated nuggets as compared with the average attendance for 1936 of the eleven Sunday Schools taking part is 55 per cent, and the net average increase per Sunday is 11 per cent. This is an encouraging gain in attendance and the gain, like a rolling snow ball, is constantly on the increase.

The Sunday School leaders are having a lot of fun, and the thought in mind is to increase the general attendance of all the Sunday Schools in New Castle.

That more than 1,000,000 young Germans have taken advantage of the government loans to those not financially able to marry, has been announced in Berlin. The plan is reported to have had great and far reaching effects.

Clark Appears Before Council

Discusses Big Run Improvement As Representative Of South Siders

Harry Clark of the South Side board of trade today appeared before city council at their municiptal building session relative to the Big Run improvement project.

It was stated that the project is now being rewritten and the improvement will extend to the P. & L. E. railroad bridge.

When the plans are finally prepared the project will be sent by the local WPA to Harrisburg WPA offices and then to Washington.

The other project was not approved by Washington engineers unless the railroad bridges were altered, hence the city's proposed intention now to carry the improvement west to the P. & L. E. railroad bridge.

New York Slum Fire Which Took Two Lives

This remarkable picture was taken at the height of a four-alarm fire which swept four tenement buildings in Suffolk Street, in the heart of New York's East Side. Two known dead have been reported, and fifteen persons seriously burned or otherwise injured. Flames shot 100 feet above the roofs of the tenements, and roofs and ceilings crashed, sending tons of bricks and debris roaring to the ground floor.

New King Once In Squadron Of Ashtabula Man

King George VI Member Of Squadron In Command Of Ohio Man During War

(International News Service)

ASHTABULA, O., Feb. 23—A retiring, conservative, democratic young man with a burning desire to learn to fly—that's how William J. MacMahon, now living in Ashtabula, remembers King George VI.

MacMahon, a flight commander in the Royal Flying Corps during the World War, was stationed at Salisbury Plain Training School when young Prince Albert, just out of the navy, was assigned to his pursuit squadron for training. MacMahon had enlisted in Canada.

He taught his eager pupil the fundamentals of flying embraced by the ground course, but a strict order prevented MacMahon from teaching the prince to fly.

The order was to keep the young man on the ground. MacMahon said he was truck by the young lieutenant's obvious disappointment and, risking severe punishment, took him up several times.

One of Albert's greatest desires, MacMahon recalled, was that he be accorded no favors because of his royal station, and that he be treated the same as his fellow officers whom he often joined in crap games and at the bar in the canteen.

Illustrating the prince's desire that he be considered as just another officer in the corps, MacMahon said that on one occasion he neglected to salute a major. Young Albert apparently was pre-occupied when he met and passed his superior.

The major wheeled and, confronting the erring officer, launched a verbal attack for the mistake.

The prince stood stiffly at attention, unflinching. As the major ran short of reprimanding words and finished, Albert clicked his heels together, saluted smartly and answered, "Yes, Sir."

The major's agitation upon learning the identity of the officer to whom he had given a lecture in military etiquette was the talk of the corps for days.

Unusual Hobby Is The Collection Of Dolls Of World Characters

(International News Service)

BOSTON—A doll dressed in cloth from one of the gowns of Queen Marie Antoinette of France forms part of the collection of more than 300 dolls from all countries gathered in the past 12 years by a Roxbury clergyman's wife.

Seeking a hobby, Mrs. Clara Fitts, wife of Reverend Frederic W. Fitts, rector of St. John's Episcopal church, set aside a room in her home for dolls.

There are tiny dolls sitting in tiny carriages or at tiny tables; a wooden doll, wearing a piece of the dress worn by the mother of Mrs. Benjamin Curtiss when she danced with the Prince of Wales who later became King Edward VII; homemade dolls, Parisian creations, and an 1850 model doll which can absorb a small bottle of milk.

ST. MARYS, Pa., March 11.—Police hinted they expected arrests late today of several suspects in the dynamiting of the home of Alton Newell, an official of the Stackpole Carbon company employes association.

A strike has been in progress at the Stackpole plant for the past 11 days. Officials said they believed strikers were involved in the dynamiting.

A stick of dynamite was hurled at the Newell home early Tuesday, landing on the porch roof and causing several hundred dollars damage. Newell had a narrow escape when the explosive just missed his window.

Sentenced To Jail To Kill His Love And Hunger For Apple Pie

(International News Service)

ASHTABULA, Ohio — William Logan, 28, of Geneva, was sentenced to spend a "pieless" 60 days in the Ashtabula county jail because of his great love and hunger for apple pie.

Leaving home for work one morning, he ordered Mrs. Logan to bake him an apple pie. Returning late in the evening, he found the order disregarded. Mrs. Logan told authorities he struck and beat her.

Arrested for assault and battery, he pleaded guilty and was sentenced to 60 days in jail, where pie is not served with or between meals.

The evening affair is under the auspices of the association's Young Men's council. John R. Hodge will be the dinner toastmaster.

Governing a free land is much like driving. The sane ones must use the brakes in order to save the fools.

Radio Used In Removal Of Snow

Position Of Snow Drifts Will Be Radioed To Highway Trucks This Winter

(International News Service)

BOSTON—Radio has been called upon to aid in removal of snow from Massachusetts highways this winter.

William F. Callahan, State Commissioner of Public Works, has made plans for installation of radio receiving sets on three of the department's trucks. The state police will co-operate in broadcasting instructions to the crews of the snow removal trucks with the expectation that highways, especially in the western part of the state, will be made passable in the shortest possible time.

Robber Trapped By His Own Greed

Youthful Bandit Trapped By His Greed For Money In Cash Register

(International News Service)

DETROIT—Carles Agozino, 18, can blame his own greed for being trapped as he robbed a drug store here.

Agozino, who tried to hold up Richard Kirchner, owner of the drug store, became so interested in the cash register, police said, that he laid down his gun so he could scoop up the money with both hands.

Kirchner, seeing the youth's attention diverted by the money, snatched a weapon from under a counter and shot his intruder in the leg. Then he pushed him into a telephone booth and called police.

Cooney Or Bailey Handle All Mail

(International News Service)

WEST NEWBURY, Mass. — As long as the Cooney and Bailey lineage lasts in this town of 700 residents, the postoffice department won't have to worry about getting somebody to be postmaster. For more than 100 years a member of either family has served in that capacity.

When the Republicans are in office a Bailey always holds the postmastership and the Cooneys go in when the Democrats are in the driver's seat. The present office holder is Miss Mary Cooney. She recently succeeded Henry D. Bailey who served through the Harding, Coolidge and Hoover administrations, and who succeeded Miss Cooney's grandfather.

Britain Will Receive Views Of Roosevelt On Pressing Issues

By KINGSBURY SMITH
International News Service Staff Correspondent

(Copyright, 1937, by International News Service)

LONDON, March 11.—President Roosevelt's latest ideas concerning international, economic and political steps which might be taken to stem the old world's drift toward war will be conveyed to British Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden today by United States Ambassador Robert W. Bingham.

The meeting, sought by Bingham, will take place at 3 p. m. Its purpose was described by official American quarters as designed to enable the ambassador to discuss the "general situation" following his return to London from the United States.

International News Service learned, however, that Bingham will convey President Roosevelt's latest views as outlined while the ambassador was in Washington recently.

It was definitely ascertained, contrary to the tenor of reports published in London in the privately circulated publication "The Week", that the ambassador will not convey any flat proposal for international peace or for a disarmament conference.

Ambassador Bingham, it was learned, has received no instructions even to discuss the possibility of an international conference.

Today Is The Day

here, and China is the source of most of it. For instance, all the cottonseed oil used for culinary purposes, is strained through press cloth made of human hair. It's longer, more elastic and more durable than animal hair!

Mathias Golancevius, who was bishop of Uladislavia, Poland, affirmed that his mother was delivered of 12 children at one confinement, and of these only he lived, the rest dying as they were born.

G. H. Barnes denies his home town, Philadelphia, was the first to illuminate its streets with gas, as stated here, that Baltimore was.

S. C. Goldstein, San Diego, would deny his fellow Californian even the credit he is due for having been wartime food administrator, insisting that the wheatless Mondays, meatless Tuesdays, etc., to which we recently referred, were "Garfield days." But Mr. Hoover was the federal food administrator after his unforgettable services as director of Belgian relief, and after the Armistice, he devoted two years to general European relief. That was when Europe called us Uncle Samaritan instead of Uncle Shylock.

C. R., San Antonio, quotes one Padre Arlequi, as having written in 1737 that it was the custom of Texas Amerindians to force tribesmen who weren't warriors to go along on war campaigns dressed in women clothes and make them do women's work.

The World At A Glance

the next that he had no power to compel them to retain their allegiance. His cabinet crumbled away, his host of advisers wrangled among themselves, and inaction seemed to be the better part of valor. . . .

"On every side were heard the buzzing voices of politicians trying to forecast the future, effect compromises, soothe angry passions. Congressmen were as perplexed as the president. To the public generally it seemed as if the solid earth were dissolving. . . .

"During the winter preceding Lincoln's inauguration the whole Washington scene was dismal beyond description. In an imperial system, when Caesar rides in state to the capitol, with unclouded brow and firm-set jaw, he spreads around him, no matter how great the perturbation of his inner spirit, an atmosphere of authority, stability, decision and prescience. In the swirling democracy of Washington there was no Caesar. . . ."

And the nation drifted into the Civil war.

F. D. R.'S VIEW?

Undoubtedly, President Roosevelt believes that if President Buchanan had been more determined, had plunged into the "forbidden" Dred Scott question—as did Lincoln—matters would have been settled, and there would have been no Civil war. When Lincoln finally came to office, it was too late. Buchanan had permitted the nation to fritter away. And it was nearly a year before Lincoln could restore the status of the presidency to such a condition that he was able to command.

"Ritual Murder" Will Be Subject Of Sermon On Friday Evening

Regular Sabbath services will be held at Temple Israel Friday evening at 8 o'clock, Rabbi Norman H. Diamond, officiating. The Biblical portion for the first Sabbath of the month of Nissan is taker from the first chapter of Malachi. The sermon subject will deal with "Ritual Murder," an accusation which has been levelled against Jews from medieval times to as late as 1936 in Canada.

Asks Lawyers To Apply For Absolute Decree As Soon As Possible

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 11.—Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson has instructed her lawyers to apply for an absolute decree of divorce as soon as the six-month period provided for in the decree nisi granted her at Ipswich has elapsed, the magazine Cavalcade stated today.

In the event the application should be refused, which is not expected, the magazine said, Mrs. Simpson will file a new suit for divorce in the French courts.

B'NAI B'RITH

British Paper Sees Sensation

Says More Significant Announcement Than Hoover Moratorium Coming

(International News Service)

LONDON, March 11.—An announcement from Washington more sensational and significent than the Hoover moratorium is now a probability within four weeks, and a possibility within two weeks, the privately circulated publication "The Week" stated today.

The announcement, according to the paper, will be a call for a conference with Europe similar to the recent Pan American peace conference at Buenos Aires.

All indications, said the publication, have pointed to likelihood that plans for calling the conference are already virtually complete, that Paris has been informed of the situation and that Wall Street—possibly without detailed knowledge of the form the announcement will take—is convinced the announcement is coming soon.

"The Week" said that despite partisan statements to the contrary and difficulties imposed by America's Johnson Act, American banking participation in French bonds has been greater the past few days than at any time since 1929.

The total of 16,110 books published in England in 1935 is the greatest annual total in British publishing history.

'Walking Out' Frock

Carol Hughes, screen beauty, has a new "walking out" frock this spring. It is made of heavy black sheer crepe, and has a broad-shouldered eton jacket of the same. The dress is embroidered in white, orange and nasturtium green. Her accessories are black.

Righteous cause: A just and reasonable idea held down by several dozen little silly ones.

PEDONESI DEFENSE BEING HEARD AT COURT

Traci Gives His Version Of Fight

Defense Counsel Declares Trouble With Dukes Was Common Fight

SOME CHARACTER WITNESSES CALLED

Counsel for the defense opened its case for Angelo Pedonesi on Wednesday afternoon at the court house at 2:45 o'clcok after District Attorney Mont L. Ailey had announced that the commonwealth rested. Attorney Edwin K. Logan made the opening address to the jury and in it promised to show the jury some things that would prove Pedonesi's innocence of anything but a fist fight between two men.

"You must remember," said Logan, "that on February 9, Robert H. Dukes was not on duty, that he was not in uniform, that he showed no badge and anything that happened between the two men was between man and man not an officer and a man."

Calls Character Witnesses.

The first witnesses called for the defense were character witnesses. M. F. Bramley, president and treasurer of the Cleveland Trinidad Paving company, who has also served in the Ohio state legislature and as a city and county official, testified. Other character witnesses were Charles R. Wright, an enamel plant superintendent; Dr. Anthony M. Lanich, John H. Bramley and Harry Christianson. All of them testified to knowing Pedonesi as a peaceful citizen.

Nick Fiella, proprietor of a restaurant and bar on South Mill street was called and testified that Dukes had been in his place around 3 o'clock and had drunk a "double header" of whiskey. Sam Fazzone of the Bay of Naples testified that Dukes had been in his place sometime around 3 and had drunk two "double headers" of whiskey and a bottle of beer. Stanley Pszenny, a bartender of the Penny Cafe on Moravia street, said Dukes had been in his place and had drunk "two or three double headers" and a bottle of 7 Up, the latter a non-alcoholic drink.

Charles Benson, a gas station attendant on North Jefferson street, said that about 3 o'clock Pedonesi and another man had driven into his station and that Pedonesi had asked directions to get to a sporting house. He told them they were on the wrong side of town and directed them to another district.

Call Sam Traci.

Sam Traci, a co-defendant with Pedonesi on the same charge, but who will go on trial Monday, March 15, testified that on February 9 he and Pedonesi and Paul Perconti had started from Cleveland to visit Sam Santucci, a friend. They found Santucci's restaurant on West Long avenue and had dinner. After dinner Pedonesi and Traci started out for a sporting house and were directed to a place on Moravia street near Home.

As they pulled up to the curb they saw a man at a gray sedan ahead of them. Pedonesi first went into the house at 903 Moravia street, Traci said, and came back and said that Dukes was still at his car.

Pedonesi blew the horn of his car and motioned to Dukes, saying at the same time "can we pull in there."

Dukes came to their car, Traci said, and said "I'm a policeman."

"We haven't done anything," Pedonesi is said to have replied, and again Dukes said "I am a policeman."

Dukes' eyes were bloodshot and he needed a shave, Traci said. Pedonesi then told him to get out of the road and Traci and Pedonesi started for the back door of the house. Dukes preceded them, Traci said, and in the passage way between two houses, Traci claims Dukes said "you think you're going in where I go. Well you are not."

At this, Traci said, Dukes grabbed Pedonesi by the coat and the men scuffled, both of them falling to the ground. They got up and started punching each other and Dukes was knocked down several times. Traci denied any part of the fight and said when Dukes quit fighting he and Pedonesi went back and got into their car and left.

Other Testimony.

Dr. Samuel W. Perry, Jr., was the first witness called to the stand in the afternoon session. He testified to having seen Dukes shortly after he was brought into the New Castle hospital. Dr. Perry told of his treatment of the injured officer and how his father, Dr. Samuel W. Perry, Sr., arrived later and took charge of the case. Dr. Perry, Jr., assisted in the treatment of Dukes.

Dr. S. W. Perry, Sr., was recalled and told of the symptoms of gas gangrene, the treatment of Dukes and the cause of his death.

Mrs. Robert H. Dukes, widow of the late officer, was the last commonwealth witness called. She said that on February 9 her husband had been in bed until 2 p. m. on account of having worked the night before. At 2 he arose and about 2:30 left the house for two purposes, one to purchase foodstuffs and the other to get some bones for two dogs he kept. The next time she saw her husband he was in the New Castle hospital, she said.

The commonwealth rested and the defense opened.

ORDER LARGE SUPPLY OF GRASS SEED FOR SCHOOL PROPERTIES

New Castle's schools and their lawns will get their usual good care this spring.

The board of education, meeting last night, authorized the purchase of a large supply of grass seed from the H. R. Huston Hardware company for $118 and sanctioned the purchase of needed paint and other supplies from the Atkinson Paint & Glass company and the Spencer Paint & Glass company.

The latter bills were much smaller.

THIS STATE OF PENNSYLVANIA

TOWN OF MANOR

Do you know that a grist mill was the first and only building in the town of Manor, in Westmoreland county, for a number of years?

This section of land was first known as Denmark-Manor and was one of the four estates procured from the heirs of William Penn.

In 1783 Stoefel Walthour, a farmer, built a grist mill on Brush Creek at the western end of the town. Nothing but the foundation of this historic landmark may be seen today. Even as late as 1869 there were only twelve houses in the town.

Correct This Sentence: "Well," said the man, "I did my best."

Make Protest On School Tax Raise

The Cosmopolitan League of Pennsylvania, in a letter to the board of education over the signature of its president, D. E. Cioffi, protested the school authorities' recent tax action which it asserts adds more weight to the present tax burden on real estate. The letter was read to the school directors last night.

EASTER VACATION COMING

Easter vacation for New Castle school pupils will commence March 23 and continue to April 1, Superintendant of Schools C. C. Green announced today.

Gas, Gas All theTime,Can't Eat or Sleep

"The gas on my stomach was so bad I could not eat or sleep. Even my heart seemed to hurt. A friend suggested Adlerika. The first dose I took brought me relief. Now I eat as I wish, sleep fine and never felt better." —Mrs. Jas. Filler.

Adlerika acts on BOTH upper and lower bowels while ordinary laxatives act on the lower bowel only. Adlerika gives your system a thorough cleansing, bringing out old, poisonous matter that you would not believe was in your system and that has been causing gas pains, sour stomach, nervousness and headaches for months.

Dr. H. L. Shoub, New York, reports: "In addition to intestinal cleansing, Adlerika greatly reduces bacteria and colon bacilli."

Give your bowels a REAL cleansing with Adlerika and see how good you feel. Just one spoonful relieves GAS and constipation. Eckerd's

Dictatorship Charge Is Hurled By Green

(International News Service)

CHICAGO, March 11.—Two divergent views of the conflict for supremacy that has split the American Federation of Labor movement were left today, with President William of the American Federation Labor hurling the charge of dictatorship at those who threaten "democracy in the administration of the affairs of organized labor."

Green's fighting address carried no hint of compromise as he debated the issues of the labor struggle with Homer Martin, president of the United Automobile Workers Uunion and spokesman for John L. Lewis' committee for industrial organization.

The debate was held in connection with the Woman Congress, in session here.

Green assailed Martin's claim that the federation has failed to take advantage of recent industrial development to organize the employes of mass production industries. For this reason, Martin said, the C.I.O. was born.

Other motives, however, led to the organization of the C.I.O., Green declared in attacking the auto workers union for leaving the parent federation.

Denying that industrial versus craft unionism was a cardinal issue when Lewis launched the C. I. O., Green said:

"The reasons thus far offered by those who formed the C. I. O. for splitting, tearing and ripping the organized labor movement asunder are no way reasonable, convincing or justifiable.

"There are many who firmly believed that the inspiration for the setting up of a rival movement within the American Federation of Labor is directly traceable to the consuming ambition of men for the exercise of power, domination and control."

getting Sam Traci and Paul Perconti, two friends, he came to New Castle to visit Sam Santucci.

Arriving here sometime after noon they bought steaks and the four men sat down to dinner. Later Pedonesi and Traci went out in search of a "house", and finally landed at 903 Moravia street. Pedonesi went in first and asked if he could bring in a friend and was told he could. He went back to get Traci and noticed a man standing at a car directly in front of his (Pedonesi's) car. Believing the man (later identified as Robert H. Dukes) was about to move out Pedonesi said he blew his horn and told him he would like to park in that spot.

Dukes came over to the Pedonesi car, said Pedonesi, and said to him and Traci, "I am a policeman".

Pedonesi continued to ask him if he could park ahead, when Dukes repeated again that he was a policeman.

"I asked him to show me a badge or some credentials," said Pedonesi, "and he said he didn't have any with him. We argued there for a short time and then Dukes walked away. In about 30 seconds Sam and I got out of the car and started for the back door of the house. As we got into the areaway between the two houses, we ran into Dukes again.

Men Fought.

"He grabbed me by the coat and one of the buttons was torn off. I struggled to get loose and we both fell to the ground, and I fell on top of him. We both got up and then Dukes started swinging at me. Naturally I swung at him and we fought there for two or three minutes. I knocked Dukes down several times but he came back at me every time and then suddenly turned and ran away.

"I walked out towards the sidewalk and a man told me to get off the property and I said I was going. Sam Traci never laid a hand upon Dukes and neither of us ever kicked him. It was a fist fight.

"Sam and I got into the car and went back to Sam Santucci's where I washed my hands and brushed my clothes, in the meantime telling Santucci and Perconti of the fight I had been in. Then we started back for Cleveland, but I decided to stop at another sporting house if I could find one. We saw one house farther up the street and I knocked at the door. When the woman came to the door I could see that she was a respectable woman and I excused myself and left."

Tells Of Car Damage.

Asked about the shattered windshield which had been mentioned in the testimony, Pedonesi said that on January 1 the windshield had been broken as the car stood at a curb. He did not know how it was broken but notified the insurance company and was ordered to not repair the car until the adjuster could look at it.

Pedonesi was given a thorough grilling on cross examination by Attorney John R. Lamoree. He stuck to his story and little of a contradictory nature was wrung from him.

The first witness of the morning was George Seiler, a gas station attendant, who corroborated the testimony of Carl Benson on Wednesday.

The last witness called by the defense was Elizabeth Factor of South Jefferson street, who corroborated the story told by Pedonesi that he had called at her house and had excused himself when she came to the door.

The arguments of counsel for both sides were to start at 1:30 with the defense putting in its arguments first. The commonwealth will follow and then comes the charge of the court. It is possible that the case will be in the hands of the jury by tonight.

Two Alarms For Small Fire Here

A two-alarm call sent firefighters and apparatus from the central and several district stations to the Milton street district last night shortly after seven o'clock, but the fire itself, in the home of James Atkins at 203 Milton, fortunately was a minor one that caused damage of only $5.

Crowds quickly gathered in the area as engines converged on the scene.

Burning soot set fire to a covering over a grate in the Atkins home, fire reports said. Assistant Fire Chief E. E. Dart reported the building damage at $3, the contents damage $2. The dwelling is owned by by James Callahan.

Assistant Chief Dart said a misunderstanding in calls put in to firemen explains the two alarms.

There will be a practice shoot at the range tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

The results of the match—Savages Rohrer 188, Cifra 180, Chambers 176, Snyder 171—total 544.

Winchesters—Eckles 186, Jinks 171, Grodecour 174, French 162, Lindsey 159. Total 531.

According to the report made to police, Schweikert was driving north on Jefferson street when a car with Pennsylvania license 6979P backed from the alley and stopped.

Will Not Open N.Y.A. Trade School At Ben Franklin

Because school directors believe it would not seem consistent to expend money to open the trade school building at Ben Franklin junior high school for National Youth Administration classes when they are ununable to do so for regular public school pupils, a request of NYA authorities for the trade school was refused by the board of education last night.

NYA officials had approached Superintendent of Schools C. C. Green for the use of the East Side building for classes and the request had been referred to the school directors.

The Churches of New Castle Are Uniting In A Great Preaching Mission

Next Sabbath Morning--Ministers Will Exchange Pulpits

Each church has planned a preaching service for each evening, March 14th to 20th, starting Sunday evening

It Is a Call of God to Our Community—Will You Hear?

It Is Addressed to Young and Old; to the Man in the Church and Outside.

PREACHING! PREACHING! PREACHING! PREACHING THE GOSPEL!

WHAT A PROCLAMATION?

"If my peoplpe, which are called by my name, shall humble themselves, and pray and seek my face, and turn from their wicked ways; then will I hear from Heaven and will forgive their sins and will heal their land." II Chron. 7; 14.

Elm Street Branch Of Y. W. Doing Great Work Among Colored Residents

"The Elm Street Branch of the Y. W. C. A. is training leaders for the churches as well as for themselves," Rev. M. C. Mills, of the St. Paul's Baptist church said on Sunday morning in urging the women of his congregation to join the Y. W. C. A.

A committee of management of nine colored women, and one employed secretary, ably guide the work of the colored branch of the Y. W. C. A., with its classes in sewing, basketball, dramatics and knitting, and its clubs for young married women, young employed girls, high and junior high school and little girls It also has a dormitory and a baby clinic in cooperation with the tuberculosis society for well babies whose mothers seek free advice from their colored doctor, about how to keep them well. Aside from other W. P. A. classes held in schools, the Elm Street Center is the only place where colored men and women may meet for recreation and club work and it is used, therefore, by several mixed clubs.

Represented At Central 'Y'

There are committees for education membership and Girl Reserves. Each with its representative on the corresponding committee at the Central Y and representatives from each Elm St. club help representatives from all "Y" clubs in planning the programs for the all-association dinners and conferences. There were last year, 271 women and girls in such activities.

The Y. W. C. A. locally and nationally, is cooperating with the women of the South, the Ministerial Association of New Castle and the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People in circulating petitions for the adoption of the Federal Anti-Lynching law. Such a bill would control the mob hatred which always does fearful harm to the character of the men who kil as well as to the man who is killed.

Wanting New Members

The church teams, from Elm St. Branch, working on the present membership ingathering, are as follows: Bethel A. M. E., Mrs. Emma Boyd; St. Paul's Baptist, Mrs. Estella Campbell; St. Eliazeth, Mrs. Carrie Cobb; St. Luke's A. M. E. Zion, Mrs. Blanche Dillard; Union Baptist, Mrs. Otha Jackson and Second Baptist, Mrs. Julia Woodson.

Last year there were 84 members from Elm Street Branch or 10 per cent of the entire membership of the Y. W. C. A. with only 3 per cent of the population of the city to draw from.

The next report luncheon for all Y. W. C. A. membership ingathering workers will be held on Friday, March 12, from 12:30 to 1:30.

PLUMBERS SEND COMMUNICATION TO SCHOOL BOARD

In a letter to the board of education last night, the New Castle local of the United Association of Journeymen Plumbers and Steamfitters asked that school directors recognize only its members in selecting plumbers for all school work.

Bessemer High Has Successful Season, Repeat Title Wins

Bessemer High For Second Straight Year Wins Section 21 Championship

Nick Calderaro Leads Scorers With 120 Points, Three Men Will Be Lost For 1938

Bessemer High school's basketball team, winners of the Lawrence County Championship and Section XXI of the WPIAL championship for the second successive year, completed its season with thirteen victories and five defeats. They all won a second leg on the Gerson trophy presented to the county winners last season.

Bessemer needs to win the county championship one more time to secure permanent possession of the cup.

But One Veteran

Starting out with but one veteran from the preceding season, Nick Calderaro, a formidable team was developed that went even further than was expected. The inexperience of the team was particularly evident in the WPIAL playoff at New Brighton with Midland which Bessemer lost 38 to 19.

The experience acquired during the past season should pay results during the next two years. Tony Zornich and Harold DeArment, sophomores, and Bill Anderson, Junior, will be back Johnny Samsa, Dick DeArment, and Nick Calderaro will graduate in June.

The team will be better equipped to stand the rigors of a vigorous campaign next year than any group of the past. Archie Shoup, Mario Calderaro and Herb Hribar, all Sophomores, saw plenty of action. Joe Kennedy, freshman, who garnered more points in reserve games than any reserve player of the past should come through next season. In addition Bill Shusman and Joe Galena, Juniors, have made splendid progress.

Three Graduate

The three highest scorers were Nick Calderaro, Tony Zornich and Harold DeArment.

Revolta-Picard Favored To Win

(International News Service)

MIAMI, Fla., March 11.—Winners of the annual international four-ball golf title the last two consecutive years, Henry Picard of Hershey, Pa., and Johnny Revolta, veteran Chicago professional, today meet Lawson Little, former amateur kingpin, and Tony Manero, national open titleholder, in the finals of the current classic.

The defending champions, pitching and putting with steady precision, carded a best-ball score of 13 strokes under par for the match over the soggy Miami Country club course to defeat Harry Cooper, Chicago, and Jimmy Thompson, long-driving Californian, 7 and 6.

WHAT BIG LEAGUE TEAMS ARE DOING

(International News Service)

WINTER HAVEN, Fla., March 11.—Jimmy Wilson, manager of the Phillies, is through being a "nice fellow to work for." After opening the spring training grind with two intensive workouts, Wilson explained: "Being a good fellow to ball players is just another word for being a sap. I tried it for three years and have finished behind the eight ball. Take fellows like Frisch and Terry. They crack the whip from March to October while their players call them names, but in October, it's Frisch or Terry teams that are on top."

Mexico City, March 11.—Al Benton, righthand hurler from Oklahoma, today was the Philadelphia Athletics first training camp "casualty." Benton's hand was injured when he knocked down a hard grounder during a game in which Connie Mack's gang annihilated the agrarians, Mexico's baseball champions, 18 to 1. Benton won't be able to pitch again for two weeks.

San Bernardino, Cal., March 11.—The Pittsburgh Pirate baseball team's holdout ranks were reduced to one today after August Richard Suhr, husky first baseman, finally agreed to terms and announced he would be on the practice field by Monday. The lone holdout on the squad at the present time is Paul Waner, rightfielder.

Meanwhile, the rest of the squad was being troubled with muscular soreness as they went through another drill in a warm sun.

Clearwater, Fla., March 11.—After putting on a brilliant pitching exhibition for his fellow Dodgers, Van Lingle Mungo was hoping today that the $500 salary raise he has been demanding will not be long in forthcoming.

Business Manager John Gorman was among the witnesses of Mungo's workout during batting practice, and although he had nothing to say, Burleigh Grimes had high praise for Mungo's pitching demonstration.

St. Petersburg, Fla., March 11.—The deadlock in New York between Col. Jacob Ruppert and Lou Gehrig was the principal topic of conversation today in the Yankees camp.

If Gehrig is not here by Saturday, Babe Dahlgren, newly acquired from the Red Sox, will be at first base in the game against the Boston Bees, and Ernie Koy, a recruit from Newark, is expected to be in center field as a substitute for Joe DiMaggio, also still absent.

Havana, March 11—Today's game with a Cuban all-star team is the beginning of a busy stretch for the Giants. Eight games are scheduled during the next eleven days.

They will be in Miami on Monday, enroute to St. Petersburg, Daytona and Gulfport. In addition to Cuban games, the schedule calls for two games here with the Cardinals and visits to the camps of the Bees Senators, Cardinals and Indians.

NEW YORK, March 11—Intended to be the "convincer" and, at the same time, a token of sound faith, Max Schmeling told a star-chamber conference on Tuesday that he and his friends, Max Machon, were here as a special deputation from the Hitler government, empowered to bring a heavyweight championship bout the James J. Braddock to Germany this summer. This statement came from one of these present and it may have been off the record then But it's on now.

For yesterday Schmeling came right out in the open with a $250,000 guarantee to Braddock tax free, plus American rights in the films and radio, for a Berlin meeting, probably in July. He said he was acting for the Deutschland Halle A. C., but any other name would serve as well.

Must Be Underwritten

The proposal, as a matter of fact, has to be underwritten by the government. In the first place, Schmeling's offer promises a deposit of the money "outside of Germany" and precedes this with the statement that it will be "free of all German taxes," two statements that irrevocably tie the thing in with Nazi control. In the second place, I happen to know that Schmeling personally couldn't raise $250,000 with a freight elevator—and in fact, wouldn't if he could. He's not that kind of a mouth organ.

Joe Gould, manager of Braddock, countered with a proposal that was deemed in reality to be refusal. He asked for an American bank for his money, an American referee for his fighter, an English judge and a flat guarantee of $400,000, while waiving all radio and movie rights to Schmeling.

Gould Can Gamble

"If all that can be arranged," said he, with pardonable gusto, "we'll consider a postponement of Braddock's fight with Joe Louis in Chicago."

He didn't explain just how he planned to persuade Chicago to stand for such a postponement, in view of the recent signing out there for a June 22 showing with Louis—some weeks after Braddock had signed to meet Schmeling in New York on June 3.

Arturo Godoy Held To Draw

Chilean Heavyweight Finds Maurice Strickland Of New Zealand Is "Tough Stuff"

BOB OLIN WINS FROM BARLUND

By HYPE IGOE
International News Service Sports Writer

NEW YORK, March 11.—A battle of the nations in the Hippodrome last night didn't produce a man of the nations for exultation among his fellows.

Bob Olin, New York heavyweight, was the only winner, he getting the decision as his loyal followers gathered in five for their one because Bob defeated Gunnar Barlund of Finland.

Arturo Godoy, Chilean heavyweight and Maurice Strickland of New Zealand, went ten rounds to a draw.

Godoy Anxious

Godoy might have crashed through for the nations had he not transgressed in two different rounds, losing them at the order of young Otto, the referee. Strickland, a heady, rollin' in, performer, best at close quarters with his choppy rights and lefts, handled the rough senior with exacting skill, though not of the Jim Corbett brand of getting away from them.

Godoy tried with the ferocity of a madman but couldn't nail the slippery one from down under.

Olin triumphed in a dazzling slugging bee over Barlund. He knocked Barlund flat on his back with a left hook to the jaw for the count of "1", clinching a close decision at best.

TALES IN TIDBITS

By BILL BRAUCHER
Central Press Sports Editor

NEW YORK, March 11.—A new idol has arisen among the Latins in Manhattan, a new hero in Harlem . . . they are calling him Don Diablo (De Debbil) . . . in flesh and blood he's Pedro Montanez, and when he is called he comes out fighting.

A Montanez vogue has been growing upon Harlem since September, 1935, when the little brown Puerto Rican bowed in with a smashing victory over Steve Halaiko . . . the colored lightweight stormed through the small clubs like a typhoon . . . now he has ripped his way to national recognition by capturing a crowd at Madison Square Garden where he crushed game, determined Enrico Venturi in 15 slashing rounds.

Don Diablo has had 23 fights in this country . . . he says he has "enjoyed" every one of them . . . and he has not been beaten or held to a draw . . . sooner or later Champion Lou Ambers must take notice of this muscular mite from the alleys of El Cayey . . . when he does, Signor Embrosio is destined to find himself with somewhat the same problem on his hands that featherweights and lightweights of an earlier day were offered in the person of Joe Rivers . . . Montanez has the same devilish persistence that characterized the great Mexican, and the same fierce love of fighting.

Sir Devil has succeeded to the throne that Kid Chocolate (Eligio Sardinias) once proudly occupied on Lenox avenue, strip of territory on the lower tip of Harlem where the tongue of the Conquistadores (garbled slightly in transmission) is the dominant language . . . before his recent meeting with Venturi, Montanez hired a hall and staged an invitational victory ball, charging six bits . . . Banners and signs proclaiming Pedro's victory over Venturi ever before he had stepped into the ring, featured the ornate decorations of the auditorium . . . it was a sort of semi-official championship crowning, the outcome of the fight being taken for granted.

Stopped By A Brick

Twenty-two years old, Montanez has been fighting for four years . . . professionally, that is . . . actually he has been fighting since he was a barefooted urchin struggling for existence in Cayey . . . once he was struck above the left eye by a flying brick . . . he fought for nothing for years before he learned that people actually were paid for such a pleasant pursuit.

On his record are knockouts successively scored in Venezuela, Central America, Spain, France, England and Italy . . . Lew Burston, American manager, picked him up in Barcelona after he had dropped a couple on Dons into a deep coma . . . Burston too, him to Paris where Promoter Jeff Dickson, the American, gave him four matches, and he scored four knockouts . . . after three fights in England, he invaded Milan to meet Carlo Orlandi, Italy's best . . . the bout ended tragically for Orlandi, who had to give up fighting forever after months in a hospital, recovering from the effects of the trouncing he took.

In about 18 months in New York, he has beaten welters as well as lightweights . . . standing out on the long list of his victims are such names as Al Roth, Bobby Pacho, Frankie Klick, Leonard Del Genio, Aldo Spoldi . . . he has had some trouble with his hands, too, and when Klick opened that old brickbat wound above his eye, he retired to Puerto Rico for a vacation . . . but now Don Diablo is definitely tip top again . . . and Lou Ambers must be wondering about him just a little.

State Track Team Will Compete In New York Meet

Thirteen Competitors Sent To Metropolis For Indoor Championship Meet

(Special To The News)

STATE COLLEGE, March 11.—Concentrating on individual rather than relay entries, Penn State's track and field team left for New York today for the annual I. C. 4-A. indoor championship meet.

Outstanding of the 13 participants is Co-Captain Howard Downey, who is entered in the 600-yard run. Downey is the leading middle-distance runner on the Nittany team, having placed third in the 440-yard dash in the outdoor I. C. 4-A. meet last spring. Adrian Markowitz, another senior and veteran, will also run in the 600.

Pete Olexy, captain-elect of the Penn State cross-country team and second place winner in the I. C. 4-A. cross-country championships, will compete in the two-mile run. A possible running mate for Olexy in this event is Len Henderson, impressive sophomore harrier.

Penn State will have an entrant in the 60-yard dash in Adam Kalmanowicz, a new find who has impressed Coach Chick Werner. Dave Bauer, veteran hurdler, will also try for the dash championships.

The Nittany Lions will be well represented in the field events. Co-Captain Emmett Brown, local shotput record-holder, will compete in his specialty. Bob Clark, a sophomore, who also set a Penn State standard, is entered in the pole vault.

Jim Redmond, Negro star, who was hampered with a leg injury last season, will attempt a comeback in his favorite events, the high hurdles and the high jump. As a freshman, Redmond scaled the 6 feet 3 inches in the latter event.

Coach Werner also plans to enter a freshman medley relay. Reg Mauer will run the 220; John Kauffman the 440; Frank Maule, P. I. A. A. mile champion, the 880, and Norm Gordon, national junior steeplechase champion, the mile.

BOARD GRANTS USE OF WASHINGTON GYM

The gymnasium at George Washington junior-senior high school will be turned over to ace badminton players from all over this section of the state when they come here for a tournament on March 19 and 20. The board of education last night approved a request of the local badminton boosters, presented personally by G. Brown Zahniser.

The board declined a request of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, for use of the senior high auditorium for a meeting in May, because such action would be contrary to board policy.

I know what you are all wondering and here 'tis . . . yes I did fall, only once . . . that's pretty good for me.

NEW YORK, March 11.—The stock market pushed through into new high ground since 1930 today for the second successive time, with rubbers, steels and rails leading the way.

The ticker fell two minutes behind in the initial rush of buying, but gains running to well over a point at the start were reduced later by a moderate influx of realizing in leaders.

Motor shares, particularly Chrysler on a drop of close to three points, were depressed through most of the morning.

All rubber shares went into new high ground. Firestone, Goodrich, Goodyear and U. S. Rubber spurting more than a point each before running into profit-taking.

New tops in the carrier division were registered by Baltimore & Ohio, Illinois Central, N. Y. Central, Pennsylvania and Southern Pacific on gains of as much as a point. Union Pacific jumped two points.

Republic Steel moved above 47 for a net gain of better than a point. Bethlehem also reached a new high, advancing a point with U. S. Steel. Both fell back to the previous close under realizing.

In the specialty classification, U. S. Leather issues stood out, the common starting 2⅝ points higher on a sale of 5,000 shares at 11½, and the "A" stock gaining almost as much, both new tops.

Bonds were quiet and steady. Grains and cotton moved somewhat higher.

Deck Of Cards Used By Prof. To Call Roll

Novel Idea Used By Pittsburgh Professor In Class Play, "Spring Class"

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH.—A deck of playing cards is used by Dr. Benjamin H. Williams, professor of political science at the University of Pittsburgh, when he calls the roll of his students.

The unique roll call takes place in a sham class performance of "Spring Class", a movie written and screened by the university's department of fine arts.

Instead of calling the names of students, Dr. Williams simply turns up the cards one at a time. A pretty co-ed, for example, answers when the four of spades comes to the top of the deck, while the boy next to her may answer to the King of Hearts.

The picture is keyed in a mood of laziness, frivolity and day-dreaming, which attacks campus, office and shop like an epidemic in spring time. Students are shown as they drowse in class; and the main character, dubbed "Boy", has a day-dream about romance. His love fancies go to make up the plot of the film.

Philadelphia Mint Has Record Year

PHILADELPHIA—The Philadelphia Mint last year produced more coins than ever were struck in a single year by the Nation's three Mints combined, with the single exception of 1919.

Mrs. Nellie Tayloe Ross, director announced that the Philadelphia domestic output exceeded that of the Mints in Denver and San Francisco by nearly four to one. Just for good measure the Philadelphia money plant tossed off 32,350,000 coins for the governments of Costa Rica, Nicaragua, San Salvador, Cuba and Venezuela.

Commercial credit is like weight. People either wish they had more or wish they didn't have so much.

Economist Looks For Sustained Building Boom

Building Boom Will Continue For Number Of Years Says Economist

(International News Service)

ROCHESTER, N. Y.—Expressing belief that a building boom exists, Dr. George F. Warren, Cornell University economist, perdicted recently "the prospect of a rising price level and increasing building gives a promising outlook for a number of years."

"In 1933," Dr. Warren asserted, "The United States was entering into the worst period of real estate liquidation in its history. A large part of this liquidation was stopped by the policy of price restoration. A small beginning in building has taken place. It will take a number of years to make up the building deficits that have occurred.

"Unfortunately, during the depression apprentices were not trained. There is, therefore, a deficit of skilled labor of nearly all kinds. The prospect of a rising price level and increasing building gives a promising outlook for a number of years."

Correct this sentence: "Now that I am famous, said the celebrity, "I shall work harder than ever to deserve success."

Six-Year-Old Boy Is Flower Wizard

(International News Service)

NASSAU, B. W. I.—World travelers, who have long been familiar with the wonders of the British Colonial gardens, are being introduced by a six-year-old boy to Nassau's latest floral miracle a scarlet hisbiscus flower growing on a marigold plant.

The boy is Stephen O'Day, and he has just been proven the originator of the unique combination of flowers.

The manner in which the hibiscus flower came to be blooming on a marigold plant remained a mystery until the boy calmly announced that he had accomplished the feat. To amazed horticultural experts, who doubted his ability to perform the delicate transfer, he demonstrated his technique by grafting several hibiscus buds to an African daisy plant. He explained that he had learned the art from his father.

IN HARRISBURG TODAY

J. W. Moorehead, executive director of Lawrence County Emergency Relief board, is spending the day in Harrisburg on business.

Another explanation of things is that old-fashioned couples began with a cow and a cook stove while moderns begin with a diamond ring and a coupe.
